Scareware. Police warn of fraud attempts with spammer posing as the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police

JOE
joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Ottawa police have issued a warning about a computer scam which appears to lock down a person's computer and attempts to extract money from them.

The so-called "scareware scam" starts with a pop-up message purportedly sent from the Canadian Association of Police Chiefs to a computer user. It popped up last year and now Ottawa police say they have received two recent complaints from residents.

Ottawa police spokesperson Const. Chuck Benoit said both complainants did not fall for the scam, however they did file a report.

The CAPC issued a news release warning people about the scam in July 2013, saying the pop-ups warn users their computers are associated with pornography.

The pop-up then asks the user to pay a fee so that the computer can be unlocked. The bogus message also threatens the user of criminal charges if the fee is not paid within 72 hours.

Similar scams have also claimed to be from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadian Security Intelligence Service.

"These types of messages, commonly known as 'scareware,' are designed to create such shock and anxiety that victims respond by sending money quickly," the RCMP stated in the July 23, 2013, statement from CACP. "If you receive one of these messages please be aware that it is a scam and has not been issued by the CACP. Do not pay the $100.00 fine."

Protect yourself

The police association is reminding computer users to use caution on the Internet by not clicking on pop-ups which claim your computer is infected with a virus and to update your computer's antivirus software.

Youth centre gets $16,000 grant from TELUS

The Dave Smith Youth Treatment Centre Foundation received a $16,000 grant from the TELUS Ottawa Community Board for new technology in its classroom on Jan. 15. The funding is in addition to the $50,000 that the Dave Smith Youth Treatment Centre has received in support of youth programming from TELUS in the past 2 years.

The Dave Smith Youth Treatment Centre opened in 1993 to provide day treatment for youth suffering from drug and alcohol abuse. In 2010, it was transformed into the only non-profit, residential treatment care facility in Eastern Ontario. METRO

Woman with head injuries may have been attacked

Gatineau police say initial findings indicate a woman found with head injuries Wednesday was assaulted. On Wednesday around 4:20 p.m. police were called to the intersection of Wright and Eddy Street where a young woman had suffered head injuries requiring transport to hospital. "Initial findings indicated that police seem assault would have occurred at 65 Eddy Street Apt. 1," police said in a news release. Police say they are trying to determine what led up to the attack. They say the 24-year-old's injuries, although serious, are not life threatening. METRO

HIV non-disclosure case goes to jury

A jury began deliberations in the case of Elliott Youden, a gay man facing an aggravated sexual assault charge, for allegedly not disclosing his HIV positive status.

Youden, 32, pleaded not guilty to the charge and says he did tell the 25-year-old complainant he had HIV, charging instead he was the victim of a shakedown for money.

The complainant, whose identity is protected by a publication ban, alleges Youden lied about his medical condition when the two had sex twice on July 18, 2010 in Youden's apartment. The man also alleges Youden did not use a condom during the second round of intercourse.

Defence lawyer Ian Carter argued his client was told by his doctor to practice safe sex after his diagnosis in 2008 and that Youden used condoms each time he had sex with the complainant.

The two met on a website in the summer of 2010 and the complainant agreed to go to Youden's apartment to give him a massage. Youden told the jury he tried to break the ice by writing in a chat message, "You can't get HIV from a massage" prior to the July 18 meeting.

The message turned into sex, after which the complainant made an unwarranted and surprise demand for $500 for the encounter, Youden testified.

The complainant told police in an Aug. 6, 2010 interview that he had chat messages from an online conversation in which Youden apparently apologized to the complainant for not paying up. But he never sent it to police.

Crown prosecutor David Elhadad argued that was because the man, true to his testimony had a lot on his mind and was struggling at school and in his personal life.

"Good common sense is he did have ... quite a bit on his plate," argued Elhadad.

Local could be headed to Super Bowl, in an ad

Contender. The Finger Cleaner could win Doritos commercial contest

A former Ottawa resident-turned Aussie actor is part of a team that stands to win a million dollars if their viral Doritos commercial wins a slot on the Super Bowl broadcast.

"The Finger Cleaner" is one of five contenders in a contest shortlisted by the chip company in its Doritos Crash the Super Bowl contest.

The hilarious smash YouTube hit involving an auto shop full of munching doritos aficionados and a mysterious finger cleaning hole in a wall is the brain child of a group of actors and television pros that include local transplant, actor Mike Gencher and his friends director Tom Noakes, producer Belinda Dean and others.

"There's a deep dark secret

that's being kept," Gencher laughs as he describes the concept of the ad, in which he plays a boss annoyed that a new worker is wiping his orange stained hands on his new uniform. Gencher's short role has drawn comparisons to Jonathan Banks' Mike Ehrmantraut character from Breaking Bad.

"Breaking Bad is all about the secret, the darkness behind it," says Gencher.

It would ruin the joke to reveal the secret so go to Doritos.com to see the ad and vote for your favorite.

Gencher says he and his fellow actors found out about being shortlisted about a week ago when Matt Lauer announced the list on the today show, but noted he couldn't play one of the commercials because it was too edgy.

"You tell someone they can't watch something and of course they all want to watch it," says Gencher.

Ottawa's first bitcoin ATM installed at ByWard brew pub

Show me the cryptocurrency! One bitcoin is now worth about $900 Canadian

lucy.scholey@metronews.ca

Bitcoin is breaking into Ottawa.

The city's first digital currency ATM was installed at the Clocktower Brew Pub in the ByWard Market Wednesday afternoon.

Bitcoin is not a tangible coin, it's an online currency that uses cryptography to control the creation of money, and

Questionable uses

"I'm just excited that bitcoin is catching on in Ottawa."

27-year-old Winston Anderson, who uses bitcoins to buy cigars, and for online dating.

it allows anyone to transfer money across borders without the "hassle" of government regulations and fees, said Ryan Wallace, the CEO of BitAccess, the company that installs the ATMs.

"It's like sending cash out of your wallet from one person to another, without any hassle," he said. "It's instantaneous."

One bitcoin is worth about $900 Canadian, but a user can buy a fraction of a bitcoin and also have it converted back to Canadian dollars. Like any currency, its value fluctuates. Wallace said one bitcoin was worth about $400 one year ago.

"Any merchant can accept a bitcoin right now. They just have to get an app," he said.

Winston Anderson was the first person to test the machine at the Clocktower.

"I'm just excited that bitcoin is catching on in Ottawa," said the 27-year-old, who said he has used the currency to buy cigars in the U.S. and for online dating purposes.

Transit user reimbursed after Presto glitch

Metrolinx is dishing out a complimentary February transit pass to an Ottawa woman after a glitch prevented a January pass she had bought to be loaded onto her Presto card and left her with a negative balance.

Catherine Gardner, an accessibility advocate who uses a wheelchair to get around, described to Metro Wednesday that she felt "trapped" without having access to public transit.

She had hoped to attend an appointment to get blood work done, but her card was not working properly and it was too late to book a Para Transpo bus in time, she said.

"I am a person on a very low income," said Gardner Wednesday. "I don't have the extra money to go put money on a card."

Metrolinx, the provincial agency which oversees Presto, said Thursday the error was due to a "production glitch" on Jan. 13 — the first day she tapped her card since buying a $35 Community Pass on Dec. 31.

The glitch prevented her Community Pass from being loaded onto the card, according to Metrolinx spokesperson Vanessa Thomas.

So, without a pass on her Presto card, the balance on it sat at $0.01. When she tapped it on Jan. 13, the ride was billed as a regular fare of $2.70, deducted from her e-purse, which gave her a puzzling balance of -$2.71.

"This was unfortunate timing and we understand how this would be confusing for the customer," wrote Thomas in an email. "We sincerely apologize that this occurred and we thank her for bringing the matter to our attention."

Why the glitch happened remains a mystery, and Gardner seems to be the only customer to experience it.

Gardner told Metro Thursday evening her card is working and the e-purse was refunded.

"I'm really happy with the outcome," she said, after attending the appointment she missed the day before.

With Bloess out, Stieda aims to re-engage disconnected voters

Innes Ward. After incumbent bows out, new candidate seizes his chance in upcoming Ottawa municipal election

TREVOR GREENWAY
trevor.greenway@metronews.ca

Roland Stieda has been crunching numbers, and he sees an untapped market of voters in the Innes Ward.

With only 43 per cent of eligible voters making it out to the polls in 2010, Stieda is hoping to re-engage the disconnected public and sway them to write his name down this October.

"In my mind, there is 57 per cent who are, for what-

Roland Stieda is hoping to score votes for the Innes Ward in the upcoming Ottawa municipal election. TREVOR GREENWAY/METRO ever reason, disengaged from the political process municipally," Stieda told Metro Thursday. The 47-year-old IT worker is so far the only candidate registered for the Innes Ward after longtime councillor

Rainer Bloess announced he wouldn't be seeking another term earlier this week. With Bloess out, Stieda is focusing on the constituents.

"One of my main things that I am trying to do is really engage with, not only the people who are already engaged in municipal politics, but those people (who) feel their voice doesn't matter or they don't understand things or don't have the time."

If elected, Stieda said he would give some much-needed attention to some aging infrastructure in the ward — places like the Notre-Dame-des-Champs community centre and the Blackburn Arena, which he says is in "dire need of some sort of facelift."

His first matter of business would be to open up a political office in the ward to host weekly open discussions with constituents.

Stieda also wants the city to look at options of converting waste into energy.

Ottawa heads to the polls Oct. 27.

Somerset candidate has vision for a new Ottawa

Martin Canning envisions a new Ottawa emerging over the next four years — one with a clear sustainable vision that involves the people in all its decision-making.

The Somerset Ward candidate says city council has been "going at it alone," for too long and hopes his campaign will spark an unprecedented level of public engagement.

"The way that government interfaces with citizens and works with citizens and shares the policy discussions and implementation with citizens is clearly broken," Canning told Metro Thursday. "And people around Ottawa want in. You hear it, I hear it, everyone wants to participate, but they are not content with the opportunity given to them, either as individuals or groups, to contribute to the changing city. That needs to be fixed now, today."

Canning has lived in the ward for more than a decade, and says residents are concerned with two main things: sustainable development and affordability. With the city changing rapidly every day, there are questions surrounding the downtown core and whether or not it's growing

Martin Canning wants to build a new Ottawa, but he needs to get voted in as councillor in Somerset Ward to make it happen. CONTRIBUTED with the people who populate it.

"Can we still afford to have families downtown? Can we still afford to have students living in apartments close to the university?" Canning asked.

A communications consultant and former policy analyst for the federal government, Canning knows how policies are formed. But he wants to change all that by involving the public every step of the way.

The challenge is engaging those disconnected constituents who feel their voice is nothing but an echo. He was also appointed to the city's Environmental Advisory Committee in 2009 and retired as vice-chair in 2012. Canning was also a founding member of the Ottawa Centre EcoDistrict, an urban sustainability action group.

Canning will be pounding the pavement and holding events leading up to the Oct. 27 election, trying to drum up support for his new Ottawa.

700 Canadians Own Property in Ecuador!

WHY?

"Because we can!" responds Mario Rochefort, who recently purchased one of the 1600 home sites from the Canadian company HolaEcuador. "With prices like that we can finally afford a property in the south."

"Prices start at $15,000 for a lot and $55,000 for a nice little beach house. For $120,000 you can own a luxurious home that would easily cost $300,000 or more in Canada."

"It's an ecological Canadian project, with all the amenities included. Electrical, water and sewage, internet, on-site security, pools, parks, tennis courts, and more – they really thought of everything," he adds, visibly proud of his acquisition.

But perhaps most attractive for property owners – the ocean! The project is situated on one of the 3 most beautiful beaches of Ecuador, directly in front of the "mini Galapagos"

One of the beautiful homes being built by HolaEcuador island in the Machalilla National Park. "Property owners benefit from a half kilometer of private beach and enjoy the constantly warm and pristine waters of the Pacific Ocean – and without annoying algae or jelly-fish. It's one of the main reasons that we decided to develop at this location," says Yves Cormier and Gordon Poole, the Canadian co-owners of HolaEcuador. "benefit from a half kilometer of private beach and enjoy the constantly warm and pristine waters of the Pacific Ocean – and without annoying algae or jelly-fish. It's one of the main reasons that we decided to develop at this location," says Yves Cormier and Gordon Poole, the Canadian co-owners of HolaEcuador.

ECUADOR?

"Ecuador has long been a well-kept secret, but tourism in the country is growing rapidly. It's the Costa Rica of 15 years ago," affirms Mr. Poole.

Ecuador has more than just beautiful beaches – it's perhaps the most bio-diverse country in the world! Within reach of a day trip are the Amazon rain forests and the incredible Andes mountain chain. And of course, the world famous Galapagos Islands.

All of this to offer, and with incredible infrastructure to boot. Gorgeous new highways (without potholes!), high-end, accessible healthcare, a secure and safe environment and an extremely low cost of living. In fact, Ecuador has the lowest cost of living in all of the Americas! A taxi in town costs only $1 and a daily lunch special in a seaside restaurant is rarely over $3.

From June through October 12,000 humpback whales come to play in the warm and safe waters directly in front of HolaEcuador's beachfront development.

HOW TO BECOME A PROPERTY OWNER?

"It's very simple," says Mr. Rochefort. "I saw an advertisement for an informational session in Metro News, I reserved a spot and I attended. The developers themselves were present and gave us all the information we needed. After the session, I requested a follow-up meeting with one of the HolaEcuador sales representatives at their office in Hull and a few weeks later I was the proud owner of my piece of paradise! In a couple of years I'll be building my dream home with HolaEcuador."

A city committee is deciding whether to demolish the fire-damaged Bradley's General Store in Stittsville. CITY OF OTTAWA

Stittsville landmark ravaged by fire gets a stay of execution

Historic structure.

Built heritage sub-committee delays vote on demolition application by owner

Main St.

The 140-year-old building, used as a restaurant and hotel, was damaged in a fire last fall.

A historic Stittsville landmark won't be torn down just yet.

Ottawa's heritage committee voted to delay its decision on whether to demolish the Bradley General Store Thursday morning.

The 140-year-old building, which has served as a restaurant and hotel, was badly damaged in an electrical fire last September.

"A great deal of the original historical material has been lost," said Lesley Collins, a city planner. City staffers are recommending the building be torn down following a demolition request from the owner.

This stirred some debate.

Barbara Botttriell, of the Goulbourn Township Historical Society, said that the city should work to salvage the building at 1518 Stittsville Main St.

"We don't have a whole lot in the heritage area, but it's a small area and it's highly valuable," she told the committee. "When you demolish a heritage building, it isn't any old building, as you are aware."

Committee member Barry Padolsky noted that a post-fire engineer report said the building could be restored, albeit at a price.

"This is a great tragedy," he said about the fire, but noted he would support the building's demolition.

There was other talk of restoring the building or asking the owner to come back with a different proposal. However, the city can't just request that the owners restore the building. Councillors can only vote to approve or disapprove the application to demolish.

Stasia Skoff, who owns the building, agreed to allow council a deferral on the demolition decision until Feb. 13.

Skoff declined to further comment at this time.

mal this week, the winter festival is back on schedule.

"We had to stop for a few days last week because it was too warm," said Briere, trying to speak over the noise of snow guns spewing fresh powder to build the Snow Flake Kingdom.

"If we don't get any rain by the end of January, we will be fine."

Briere said his crew will make 30,000 cubic metres of snow this year, much of it carved into snow slides, ice castles and snow mazes for festival-goers.

"I love to spend all this time outside," said Briere with excitement.

Crews have been working hard for over a month straight to turn the park into a frozen playground.

Winterlude features ice carving, a snow dance party at Ottawa's Confederation Park and a comedy show featuring Rick Mercer.

This year's event will also have an Olympic theme, as it coincides with the Sochi Olympics next month. Visitors will be able to play broomball, compete in a winter obstacle course and sit in a real bobsled.

Winterlude celebrations begin Jan. 31 and run until Feb. 17.

Ottawa Police search

Kitchen knife-toting drugstore bandit wanted

Police want help tracking down a woman who robbed a pharmacy in a corner strip mall at Lorry Greenberg Drive and Conroy Road on Jan. 4.

The woman loitered outside the store before entering around 12:15 p.m. She produced a large kitchen knife and demanded a prescription drug, police say. The woman then left the store with a quantity of the drug.

No injuries were reported.

The suspect is described as "Caucasian," female, about 5'5" (165 cm), with a medium build and dark hair. She was wearing an oversized, beige, 3/4 length winter coat with the hood up, black pants with the bottom hems tucked into black winter boots, and a red or burgundy coloured long sleeve top under the coat.

Anyone with information with respect to this robbery is asked to contact the robbery unit at 613-236-1222 ext. 5116 or Crime Stoppers at 613-233-8477 (TIPS) or toll free at 1-800-222-8477. METRO

Rape suspects identified: Cops

Indian police said Thursday that they were closing in on five homeless men in the gang rape of a 51-year-old Danish tourist in New Delhi, a case that highlights the plague of sexual violence in the country and threatens to tarnish its tourism industry.

Three other suspects were earlier picked up and accused of taking part in Tuesday's attack, which lasted nearly three hours and happened near Connaught Place, a popular shopping area in the heart of New Delhi, police spokesman Rajan Bhagat said.

"We have identified the culprits. All of them are vagabonds," a police official said.

Tourism figures fell significantly in the three months following the 2012 fatal gang rape of a young Indian woman — a case that caused public outrage — with visits by women dropping 35 per cent, according to the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry of India.

Violence continues

Violence against women in India has caused increasing alarm since the fatal gang rape of a 23-year-old Indian physiotherapy student in New Delhi in December 2012.

- Several foreign tourists also have been targeted in attacks that have received international attention, although Indian women are assaulted far more frequently.

Police said the Danish tourist was raped at knifepoint Tuesday after she approached a group of men for directions back to her hotel. Instead of helping her, the men lured her to a secluded spot and raped her repeatedly, according to police.

Bayaz, 50, is the first woman to be promoted to run an entire district — the highest front-line appointment for an Afghan policewoman. With just two days on the job, she said she feels up to the challenge despite the threat, as police-women are among the Taliban's top targets.

"I work day and night," she said as she walked through a money exchange bazaar that lies at the heart of Kabul's District 1. "I am ready to serve; I

Inquest called over record suicide year

Nunavut's chief coroner is calling a special inquiry in response to a record number of suicides in the territory last year.

Justin Trudeau isn't endorsing a proposal to legalize prostitution, saying it's one of many resolutions to be debated at the party's national policy convention in Montreal next month.

Trudeau admits $840 in bad expense claims

Administrative errors? Expenses were incurred while Liberal leader was working as paid public speaker; he says money has been fully repaid

In the midst of the Senate expenses scandal, Justin Trudeau has fessed up to some expense claim transgressions of his own.

The Liberal leader disclosed Thursday that he wrongly claimed $840 in MP travel and living expenses incurred while he was actually moonlighting as a paid public speaker.

He called them administrative errors and said he fully repaid the money as soon as he was made aware of the problem.

Conservative and NDP rivals pounced on the admission, accusing Trudeau of being little better than the senators who are under RCMP investigation for making allegedly fraudulent expense claims.

But Trudeau insisted his public disclosure and swift action to remedy the mistake shows he's setting a new standard of transparency.

"I am now explaining that to Canadians because one of the most important things about my approach in politics has been creating a level of accountability, of transparency, of openness, of honesty that means admitting when mistakes were made, taking responsibility for them and fixing them in an open manner that hopefully will continue to restore Canadians' trust in our political system," he said during an appearance with a provincial Liberal byelection candidate in Thornhill, Ont.

Problem with alcoholics? Get them to work for beer

Tough job. Participants paid in beer for light work collecting litter and eating a meal

The men streaming in and out of a small clubhouse in east Amsterdam could almost be construction workers at the end of a hard day, cracking jokes as they down a few Heinekens, waiting for their paycheques. But it's only noon, the men are alcoholics and the beers are the paycheck.

In a pilot project that has drawn attention in the Netherlands and around the world, the city has teamed up with a charity organization in hopes of improving the neighbourhood and possibly improving life for the alcoholics. Not by trying to get them to stop drinking, but instead by offering to fund their habit outright.

The men — two groups of 10 — must show up at 9 a.m., three days a week. They start off with two beers, work a morning shift, eat lunch, get two more beers, and then do an afternoon shift before closing out with their last beer. Sometimes there's a bonus beer. Total daily pay package:

The problem

For years, around 50 rowdy, aging alcoholics had plagued a park in east Amsterdam, annoying other park-goers with noise, litter and occasional harassment.

- The city had tried many hard-handed solutions, spending 1 million euros (about $1.5 million) a year on prevention, treatment and policing programs to deal with the problem, but nobody was satisfied.

19 euros (about $28), in beer, tobacco, a meal, and 10 euros cash.

Gerrie Holterman, leader of the small non-profit Rainbow Group Foundation that runs the program, conceded there has only been one individual so far who has moved from the program to regular life. Numerous participants have found the rules too demanding and dropped out. But she said nuisance in the park has been reduced, neighbours are happy and there's a waiting list of candidates who want to participate.

Hollande's alleged lover sues magazine

The actress suspected of having an affair with French President Francois Hollande has filed a lawsuit against a gossip magazine for alleged invasion of privacy over its report.

A representative of Closer magazine says the publication received legal documents Thursday from Julie Gayet and her lawyers. The lawsuit seeks 54,000 euros (about $80,000) in damages and other fees, plus the publication of a summary of any judicial ruling on its front page.

Rumours have long circulated that the French president might have a lover. Closer published images Friday showing his bodyguard and a helmeted man it says is Hollande visiting what it says is Gayet's apartment.

Hollande has been living with Valerie Trierweiler, a journalist, since he split with the mother of his four children in 2007.

Trierweiler is viewed as the reason that Hollande split from longtime partner Segolene Royal. The couple separated just after Royal lost her bid for the presidency in 2007, but it later emerged Hollande had been having an affair with Trierweiler during the campaign. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vatican grilled by UN on child sex abuse scandal

'The Holy See gets it.'
Church's former sex crimes prosecutor says there are 'things that need to be done differently'

The Vatican came under blistering criticism from a UN committee Thursday for its handling of the global priest sex-abuse scandal, facing its most intense public grilling to date over allegations that it protected pedophile priests at the expense of victims.

The Vatican insisted it had little jurisdiction to sanction pedophile priests around the globe, saying it was for local law enforcement to do so. But officials conceded that more needs to be done and promised to build on progress already made to become a

Live webcam child abuse ring busted

Child abuse investigators in the U.S., Britain and Australia have dismantled an organized crime group that streamed live webcam footage of child sexual abuse from the Philippines for paying viewers around the world.

An international investigation broke up the ring, which abused impoverished children as young as six, Britain's National Crime Agency said. Authorities made 29 arrests, including 11 people in the Philippines who had facilitated the crime, including members of the children's families.

Police describe the use of webcams to stream live child abuse — especially from developing countries — as a "significant and emerging threat."

The investigation began in 2012 after a routine police visit to a registered sex offender in Britain. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Are you living with allergic rhinitis?

If you are, an opportunity is now available to be part of a clinical research study.

Allergic rhinitis is a common reaction to allergens like dust mites. It can cause a number of annoying symptoms like itchy or runny nose, sneezing, irritated eyes, ears and sinuses. If you are one of the many people who live with allergic rhinitis, you may be eligible to participate in a clinical study of a new investigational therapy.

To be eligible for this study, a participant must:

- Be between the ages of 18 and 55
- Be generally healthy
- Have a history of persistent or intermittent allergic rhinitis and a positive allergy test to dust mites or other defined allergens

Women who are capable of becoming pregnant are not eligible for this study. People who smoke will also be excluded.

Qualified participants will receive study drug or placebo (an inactive substance) and study-related care at no cost. You will also be compensated for your travel expenses.

If you or someone you know has allergic rhinitis and would like more information about this study contact: Ottawa Allergy Research, Ottawa ON — 613-725-2102 Ext 248

YOU CAN BE THE KINGMAKER

Record labels are still not big fans of Spotify. Do you have sympathy for them?

I don't think there's a single record label that has a problem with us. They've worked with us for four to five years now, and I'm sure they wouldn't partner with us if they didn't like what we do. Right now we're their second-largest revenue generator after iTunes.

any people. Do you want Spotify to go in the same direction?

We don't want to become creators of music. Record labels are great partners, and by the way, artists can also upload music to Spotify on their own. What we're focusing on is getting more music uploaded so that more people can enjoy it.

One of your staff members put an unknown singer named Lorde on Spotify's playlist, turning her an instant star. Do you want to formalize this process of Spotify as a kingmaker?

Yes, we want to help artists, but we don't want to be kingmakers. What we're about is democratizing the music industry so that your friends are your kingmakers.

Where will the money come from (to run Spotify)? At the end of the day, all these users just want things for free...

I think customers will pay for quality. People are willing to pay more for an Apple product because they perceive it as being higher quality. And look at news media. You can get news for free, but even so I subscribe to the Wall Street Journal because they provide depth and analysis that I think it's worth paying for. METRO

STOP ME IF YOU THINK THAT YOU'VE HEARD THIS ONE BEFORE

It's a brand new year. But for those of you who think we're getting off to a fresh start, a clean slate and all that, this week's Metro List should disabuse you of that notion. Talk About déjà vu all over again:

1 Meryl Streep gets nominated for an Oscar. Get out! It makes the 18th time the World's Greatest Actor (registered trademark) is nominated for an acting Academy Award. They should retire her category or something. Sorry, no more best actress category. It's now the Meryl Streep wannabe category. And the winner is ... Jennifer Lawrence, who's already been nominated three times, has one Oscar and is still only 23.

2 Overweight politician vows to stick it to his enemies. No, it's not Rob Ford, but New Jersey Governor Chris Christie doing his best Rob Ford imitation, denying he had anything to do with shutting down traffic on a busy com-

3 French president has affair. Francoise Hollande is having an affair with actress Julie Gayet. The only difference between this affair and those of former presidents such as Nicolas Sarkozy (who left his wife for super-model Carla Bruni) François Mitterrand (who kept a second family), and Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, etc. is, er, nothing. Power is an aphrodisiac that transforms even the least fa-

4 Rock star sticks his nose into Canadian environmental controversy. Sir Paul McCartney took a moment with the baby seals in Newfoundland, posing with several admiring mammals on a convenient ice floe. Now Neil Young has decided to follow Macca's lead and has inserted himself into the national debate over the oilsands, the Keystone Gateway pipeline, and whatever. This is really nothing new for the iconic rock star, who's been protesting since he first picked up his guitar. Remember, he's the guy who inspired Sweet Home Alabama. Maybe somebody will write a rockin' song defending the oilsands. Maybe not.

5 Royal couple visits Canada. Charles and Camilla, that is. Like relatives who just can't stay away, The Prince of Wales and his Duchess will enjoy the nation's hospitality for four (more) days in May, visiting New Brunswick, Ontario and Saskatchewan, you lucky guys. They were just here in 2012. Governor General David Johnston made the announcement, adding, by way of discreet understatement, "Sharon and I are looking forward to seeing them once again, as they spend some time here in Canada." It is Charles' 17th visit, Camilla's third, so she has a lot of catching up to do.

One liners: Trending topics include a one-liner about the topic, giving a bit more context than the one-word trends of Twitter.

Private vs. public:

While most people's Twitter feeds are public, FB users seem to keep their profiles on strict lockdown, which gives Twitter a leg up in figuring out you're actually into. This means trends might be more closely linked to celebs and news outlets' likes and dislikes.

RE: Citizenship Changes Emphasize 'Speak White Ideology,' Report Finds, published online January 16

Having been through the citizenship process recently, I have to disagree with most of this think tank's findings.

The claim that applicants are tested on "economic self-sufficiency" is completely false. Moreover, barriers to citizenship are low, with only 3.6 per cent of citizenship applicants ultimately rejected. The most common reason for rejecting applicants is that they didn't live in Canada for the required three years.

The history section includes a lot about the waves of immigration that have shaped Canada, emphasizing the positive contribution of multiculturalism, pluralism, diversity and mutual respect. The overwhelming majority of applicants in my test session were non-white, and that seems to be quite normal.

The only reasonable point that the think tank makes relates to the processing delays. My application took 27 months, almost all of which involved my case file sitting in a pile waiting for someone to look at it. Daniel Hassett, posted to metronews.ca

Synopsis

Ex-Marine Jack Ryan is back on screen after a 12-year break, but this time he looks like Captain Kirk. As played by Chris Pine (taking over from Alec Baldwin, Harrison Ford and Ben Affleck), CIA field agent Ryan discovers evidence of an upcoming terrorist attack. Leaving his suspicious girlfriend (Kiera Knightley) behind, he is sent to Moscow to continue the investigation by Intelligence boss Agent Harper (Kevin Costner). Dodging bullets and bad guys, he encounters Viktor Cherevin (Kenneth Branagh), an evil businessman with a plot to destabilize the global economy. Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Jack Ryan: Shadow Recruit. Chris Pine and a dull dialogue sink this Jack Ryan installment

Richard: Steve, Shadow Recruit is nothing fancy... and it's also nothing Clancy. As the first of the Ryan movies not based on a Tom Clancy novel, it feels quite generic. There is the usual intrigue and a couple of tense scenes, but what the movie doesn't have is the ear for dialogue of the other Ryan films. When you have a senior CIA agent muttering the line, "This is geopolitics, not couple's therapy," it's hard to know whether this is a satire of spy films or just badly written.

Steve: It certainly wasn't inspired writing, that's for sure. I get the feeling the genesis of this film came straight from a money-angling producer who somehow decided reviving a 12-year-old movie character like Jack Ryan would make better business sense than creative endeavour. The problem is, even if you look at the previous incarnations of the CIA operative — he's pretty indistinct. He's no James Bond. And vanilla Chris Pine doesn't add much to that blandness.

RC: True, but I really think that this is a case of a director with no affinity for the material. It's almost as if the movie was pieced together by people who had seen a lot of spy movies, but didn't really understand them. Add to that action scenes so frenetically edited it's often hard to see who is punching who through the flashes of light on the screen. A little clarity in those sequences would have gone a long way to make up for the ridiculous dialogue and underdeveloped characters.

SG: Absolutely. I had a hard time making sense of the action sequences since they were filmed with shaky handheld cameras in what seemed to be extreme close-up. Perhaps filmmaker Kenneth Branagh was focusing less on direction and more on playing the Russian antagonist in the film, which he does effectively enough in spite of the formulaic dialogue. Keira Knightley too, in the pretty unremarkable role of Ryan's unwitting operative wife, is fine — although I'm not sure what her attraction to the part was.

RC: Knightley was fine, but I thought Branagh played Cherevin with all the nuance of a Bond villain. He's ruthless, flamboyantly accented and super smart. Smart enough to bring down the global economy but not smart enough, apparently, to see through Chris Pine's terrible drunk act near the climax of the film.

Steve: True enough. And that probably exemplifies this film's biggest flaw. As much as the action is set at the pace of an over-caffeinated ferret, this thriller is pretty much boilerplate material with any subtle intricacies simplified for the sake of the neatly-capped plot. In the end, it's a pretty plain spy flick.

Pretty dry for a film spy

Squeaky clean Chris Pine doesn't add much to an already-bland Jack Ryan tale. CONTRIBUTED

Metro World News in Hollywood

The Academy announced its nominations for the 2014 Oscars Thursday morning, with David O. Russell's American Hustle and Alfonso Cuarón's Gravity tying for the most nominations, earning 10 each, while Steve McQueen's 12 Years a Slave was right behind with nine. It's an incredibly crowded year, with nine films up for best picture, so voting for the final awards could go almost anyway, but we're predicting that the Hollywood Foreign Press got things almost exactly right with their major winners at the Golden Globes. We'll find out for sure on March 2.

Metro's predictions

Best picture: 12 Years a Slave

Best actor: Matthew McConaughey, Dallas Buyers Club

Best actress: Cate Blanchett, Blue Jasmine

Best supporting actor: Jared Leto, Dallas Buyers Club

Best supporting actress: Lupita Nyong'o, 12 Years a Slave

Best director: Alfonso Cuarón, Gravity

Her squeezed its way into the best picture race. CONTRIBUTED

Biggest winners

American Hustle has the biggest profile in the most major categories, making it the best contender for a sweep — though that seems incredibly unlikely this year. And Judi Dench has to be pleased to make it into the Best Actress race for underdog Philomena.

Biggest losers

Certain films didn't seem to connect at all with the Academy, the most surprising being the Coen Brothers' Inside Llewyn Davis, which only earned two nods, for cinematography and sound mixing. And Saving Mr. Banks, which had been considered a contender for nominations at least for Emma Thompson and Tom Hanks, will have to make due with a best original score nod. But the biggest snub seems to be for Lee Daniels' The Butler, which wasn't nominated for a single award. Sorry, Oprah.

Biggest surprises

It's definitely a treat to see Spike Jonze's quiet and fantastic Her squeeze its way into the best picture race, as well as Philomena, though neither film has that great a chance of winning the top prize. Hopefully the Academy, like the HFPA earlier this week, will award Jonze for best original screenplay as a consolation. And not seeing Academy favorite Tom Hanks nominated for anything despite well-received roles in Captain Phillips and Saving Mr. Banks is certainly a surprise, though apparently the Academy needed to make room for Jonah Hill, whom they seem to really like.

The Nut Job

Director. Peter Lepeniotis

Stars. Will Arnett, Katherine Heigl

Paralleling the frenetic pace of its rodent star, The Nut Job certainly packs a lot of energy — even if the tale's slightly familiar. Based on his own short feature, Peter Lepeniotis's The Nut Job expands the story of a self-indulgent squirrel plotting the heist of a nut shop that hides its own conniving criminals. The comedy's cuddly forest creatures should surely win over the youngsters but an overactive story-line laced with predictable puns make The Nut Job mostly forgettable.

Ride Along

Director. Tim Story

Stars. Ice Cube, Kevin Hart

Short, screechy Ben (Hart) wants to marry the sister of tough, lone-wolf police officer, James (Ice Cube). But to do so, he has to prove himself to James by riding along with him on the job. Mild amusement ensues while Ben tries to win some respect and help bag a bad guy. There's nothing particularly new, exciting or even that funny about Ride Along — and a film this formulaic really can't afford to be this dull.

Big Bad Wolves

Director. Aharon Keshales, Navot Papushado

Stars. Lior Ashkenazi, Rotem Keinan

From its elegant, unnerving opening credit sequence to its frenetic, white knuckle finale, Israeli horror thriller Big Bad Wolves is a film that thrives on dichotomy: you're never sure whether to laugh, cry, wince or swoon. The film sees a wave of child murders grip a city and follows a rogue cop and a grieving father opting to take rough justice into their own hands by kidnapping a milquetoast teacher they suspect is the killer. Violent and unsparing, this was apparently Quentin Tarantino's favourite film of last year.

Big names, small projects

Sundance kickoff.

Robert Redford's indie love-in attracts actors looking to flex their thespian chops

As Kristen Stewart, Elisabeth Moss and Joseph Gordon-Levitt have learned, the Sundance Film Festival in the mountains of Utah is the ideal destination to get away from it all and work on that career shift.

Robert Redford's two-week celebration of independent cinema kicked off its 30th year Thursday in Park City, Utah, with a lineup that includes 117 feature films. One of them is Camp X-Ray, in which Stewart plays against type as a Guantanamo Bay guard who befriends a prisoner.

Stewart, who was last at the festival in 2010 when she was promoting her role as Joan Jett in The Runaways, says Camp X-Ray was one of the rare scripts she'd read that made her want to work again after her two-year acting hiatus following the Twilight movies.

Joseph Gordon-Levitt debuted his first feature film (Don Jon) at Sundance last year. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"At my age it's difficult to find stuff that isn't completely derivative," said the 23-year-old in a recent interview. "Most parts are imitating something else that was popular."

With Snow White and the Huntsman 2 coming in 2015, Stewart's big-budget franchise days are far from over. "But it's a little bit more difficult to create the environment that I thrive in on a bigger movie," she explains. "I prefer doing smaller ones. They're quicker. I like intensive things and then I like to walk away."

For Gordon-Levitt, persistence has paid off. This will be his seventh consecutive year at Sundance and he'll be presenting the first three episodes of HitRecord on TV. It's the cable TV extension (airing on the Pivot network) of his HitRecord.org, a website dedicated to giving artists a platform to share and develop their work. "HitRecord started at Sundance in 2005 in a way," says Gordon-Levitt. "But it was more of an informal hobby."

Gordon-Levitt says the fest "feels like a home away from home," which made it the perfect place last year to debut his first feature film, the porn addiction tale Don Jon.

How I Met Your Mother finale will 'tie it all together' for fans

Ending in March. Cast of long-running sitcom is already emotional — and eyeing up props to take as souvenirs

Cristin Milioti was the first to tear up. "I don't know why I'm crying, I have no right to cry," she said when asked about the relationships she had developed on How I Met Your Mother as the newest cast member.

"These guys had been together for nine years, so it was very scary about how I would be accepted, but it couldn't have been more wonderful."

Milioti was cast as the mother at the end of season eight. But her tenure will end in weeks. In its ninth and final season, How I Met Your Mother airs its grand finale March 31.

And there will be plenty more tears among cast and crew as the long-running show winds down.

"It's been the nicest place to come for nine years," said Jason Segel (Marshall Eriksen), sitting on the set that serves as the living room for the apartment he shares with wife Lily (Alyson Hannigan).

"This is the longest time I've spent with people outside my own family. You watch people go through some serious life stuff."

Said co-creator Craig Thomas: "It's surreal that the end is coming. I think it's only really going to hit us when it's really over."

All good things come to an end: The show's leading men from left, Josh Radnor, Neil Patrick Harris and Jason Segel.

The show premiered on CBS in 2005, detailing the lives of friends in Manhattan.

It revolves around Ted Mosby (played by Josh Radnor) narrating to his children through a series of flashbacks about how he met their mother.

Co-creator Carter Bays says the final episodes will "tie it all together in a package" for fans.

"We will also fill in the eight years in the life of the mother. There are a lot of fun intersections in her life and our gang, so we'll see more of her and learn more about her," said Thomas.

Neil Patrick Harris (Barney Stinson) says the ending is "More complicated than you would assume."

Meanwhile, the toughest battle seems to be who claims dibs on the props when the show wraps up.

"It's been a touchy subject. (Co-creator) Carter is taking everything," said Hannigan. "He's like taking an entire wall of the set."

Bays said he didn't think he'd be emotional about the props. But with the show winding down, he's been getting needy.

"You say you don't need it. And then you start thinking you do need some stuff," said Bays.

With the end in sight, the show has already hit some speed bumps, most recently with an episode that featured a homage to kung fu movies where Segel's character Marshall travels to China to meet with three characters out of a kung fu movie played by Radnor, Cobie Smulders (Robin

In this memorable episode Barney (Neil Patrick Harris) and Abby (guest star Britney Spears) realize that they have one thing in common — their mutual hatred of Ted (Josh Radnor) — so the "couple" decides to go to the bar to flaunt their new relationship in Ted's face. BOTH IMAGES CONTRIBUTED

The cast members' accents and makeup sparked a firestorm on Twitter for what some perceived as racist overtones. Bays and Thomas responded with an apology, saying: "We're deeply sorry, and we're grateful to everyone who spoke up to make us aware of it. We try to make a show that's universal, that anyone can watch and enjoy. We fell short of that this week and feel terrible about it. To everyone we offended, I hope we can regain your friendship and end this series on a note of goodwill."

is uploaded to YouTube. Now a task force of YouTube Nation curators will be plowing through this cache to identify not only what's most popular, but also what's poised to go viral with YouTube consumers.

The five-minute YouTube Nation program posts weekdays at 9 p.m. ET. It's hosted by Jacob Soboroff (from HuffPost Live, the streaming network of The Huffington Post, and Pivot TV's TakePart Live). But each episode will be more than a digital tip sheet. It will come equipped with links and playlists that enable the user to delve fully into the video being recommended.

"For every five minutes of our show," says Katzenberg, "we'll have an hour or more of content." YouTube Nation is geared chiefly to 18-to-30-year-olds and "casual viewers who would like to be heavier users," he says. But Robert Kyncl, YouTube's head of content and business operations, says: "We look at YouTube Nation as a way to promote the great breadth of content on YouTube in a digestible way for anyone."

Solving fairy tale murders may not seem like serious business, but set against the gritty streets of New York where Prince Charming and company have sacrificed their Ever After lives for ones of dysfunction and mistrust, it gets real. As Bad Wolf detective Bigby, your decisions and behaviour affect others with the episodic story and evidence changing noticeably in response. You interrogate foul-mouthed frogs, have throw-down fights with rage-aholics, and commiserate with Snow White. It doesn't feel like you're getting anywhere in Episode One, but it sure is entertaining. KRIS ABEL

CW resurrects
popular *Veronica
Mars* series

The CW says it's developing an online spinoff of the Veronica Mars series.

Series creator Rob Thomas has agreed to do the digital version, CW president Mark Pedowitz told a meeting of the Television Critics Association this week.

The decision to proceed with the spinoff was made Tuesday and details have yet to be worked out, including the cast and characters, the CW said.

Veronica Mars, which was cancelled in 2007 after three seasons, is enjoying a resurgence. A film based on the show about a crime-solving teen, played by Kristen Bell, was funded by the crowd-funding site Kickstarter. The movie is due out in March.

A debut date for the online spinoff was not announced.

Bell's anti-Justin tweets chime online as Beliebers battle back

Apparently Drake Bell didn't learn his lesson the last time he started taunting Justin Bieber online, as the former Disney star is at it again, taking to Twitter to blast Bieber after his house was raided and his pal, Lil Za, was arrested for drug possession. "How much are you paying Lil Za to take the coke (rap) for you? Be a man and take responsibility. Learn to be an adult," Bell tweeted. He also called Bieber "talentless," prompting Bieber's friends and fans to strike back in defense, finding Bell's alleged phone number and address and posting it online.

"Right now, I don't imagine that I would go that route, but I've also learned to never say never."

Benedict's sex appeal a mystery to Sherlock producers

THE WORD

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Are you surprised Benedict Cumberbatch is the hunk that Tumblr says he is? So are the producers of Sherlock, who hired him.

Sherlock showrunner Steven Moffat and producer Sue Vertue, who cast the thespian in the role, didn't believe he could be regarded as, well, sexy.

"When we first cast him, people were saying, 'You promised us a sexy one!'" remembers Vertue as part of this week's Entertainment Weekly cover story. "People weren't thinking of Benedict in that light at all."

His name also didn't help. "When people said, 'Who's playing Sherlock Holmes?' and we'd say, 'Benedict Cumberbatch,' everyone looked very vague," recalls Vertue. "Then we'd always have to spell his name."

Everyone had their doubts before the first episode aired. "For me, it is a winter show," says Cumberbatch. "It's not something you watch when you've got the dying light on the hottest day. So I was a bit despondent," he recalls.

But after the debut — and when he saw how quickly social media latched onto the BBC drama — Cumberbatch realized his life was going to change forever. "The immediate response was exciting," he says. "My name: trending, trending, trending. I didn't even know what 'trending' was before that night."

"After the first episode," added Vertue, "we never had to spell his name."

Grape stuff by candlelight

Hunkering down indoors with family, food and a few bottles of wine has become a winter tradition in Canada.

While power outages may put a damper on your culinary ambitions, you can still explore new grape varieties by candlelight.

Spain's eclectic collection of berries is mostly indigenous. Though some aren't that easy to warm up to, garnacha (or grenache as it's known in France) meets most palates in the middle.

With a ripe, rounded fruit expression and, depending on the age of the vines, a bright, naturally berry sweet flavour, Spanish garnacha is a true bridge between the old and new wine worlds.

I predicted its 2014 popularity in a column earlier this month, and if you need confirmation, fill your mouth with Bodegas San Alejandro's 2010 Las Rocas Garnacha ($14.99 - $19.90).

Made in the Calatayud region in the province of Zaragoza's southwestern corner, its soothing, black-fruited body cruises to a finish of dark spice, tannin and subtle oak.

Try with seasonal dishes like stew and meaty chili — if you have electricity.

2. Place noodles in bowl. Cover with hot water. Soak 5 minutes, or until softened. Drain in mesh strainer; set aside.

Ingredients

Dipping sauce

- 1/4 cup each smooth natural peanut butter and apricot jam
- 2 tbsp each soy sauce and rice or cider vinegar

Spring rolls

- Hot sauce, to taste
- 2 oz dried bean or rice thread noodles
- 1/2 English cucumber, peeled and halved lengthwise

- 4-oz peeled jicama root
- 12 large rice-paper wrappers (8-inch round or larger)
- 1/2 cup shredded carrots
- 2 avocados, pitted and thinly sliced
- 1 lb cooked boneless, skinless chicken breast meat, pulled or cut into strips
- 12 large fresh mint leaves

3. Use spoon to scrape out and discard the seeds from cucumber halves. Cut each piece into thin strips. Set aside. Cut jicama into thin slices, then cut each slice into thin matchsticks.

4. Fill bowl (at least several inches larger than the rice wrappers) with warm water. Soak 1 wrapper until just barely softened, 10 seconds. Carefully remove the rice wrapper from the water and lay flat on the Price, Rays agree to one-year deal

Now that Tampa Bay's David Price is slated to earn the biggest single-season salary in Rays history, the three-time all-star hopes he remains part of the budget-minded franchise's plans for 2014.

The team announced Thursday that the 2012 AL Cy Young Award winner agreed to a $14-million, one-year deal. However, the agreement doesn't eliminate the possibility of a trade.

The 28-year-old is eligible for free agency after the 2015 season, and the Rays likely won't be in a position to pay the type of money Price could earn on the open market.

Redblacks general manager Marcel Desjardins has been at the helm for nearly a year and is tasked with the crucial role of rounding out the roster ahead of the team's debut. FRED CHARTRAND/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kickoff creeping up on Redblacks

CFL. GM Desjardins has accomplished a lot in the last year but still needs to put roster together for new team

A year ago, Marcel Desjardins was a one-man show.

Hired as GM of the expansion Ottawa Redblacks on Jan. 30, Desjardins faced the immense task of building a fledgling franchise's football operations department from scratch.

Roughly a year later, Desjardins not only has scouting and coaching staffs in place but also more than 40 players under contract a month before the start of CFL free agency.

"What's nice for me is instead of having to kind of think about 100 things, I can focus on maybe 10 of them and delegate the other 90,"

Building blocks

Marcel Desjardins' biggest acquisition in the CFL expansion draft was veteran quarterback Kevin Glenn from the Calgary Stampeders. But taking Hamilton Tiger-Cats centre Marwan Hage and receiver Rory Kohlert of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, both Canadians, were interesting moves.

- Hage, a Beirut native who grew up in Montreal, spent his entire 10-year career in Hamilton and was disappointed when left unprotected. That prompted suggestions Hage might retire rather than go to Ottawa, but Desjardins said, "he gave no indication he wouldn't be playing."

- Kohlert, 26, of Regina, had 45 catches for 493 yards and three TDs with Winnipeg but is slated to become a free agent Feb. 15. Kohlert is a free agent who Desjardins is trying to sign.

Desjardins said. "Scouting-wise we're doing what we do with film and free agents and setting up tryout camps and there's also the (CFL combine) and getting mini-camp ready."

"All those things must take place before the season can even occur and we still have some 30-some guys yet to sign. Trust me, it (the start of 2014 CFL season) will be here before we know it."

The Redblacks will begin play this season just over six years after the CFL awarded Ottawa a conditional expansion franchise. In 2006, the league indefinitely suspended the former Ottawa Renegades club that was born six years following the demise of the iconic Rough Riders in 1996.

Desjardins laid Ottawa's foundation with two major moves in December. He hired head coach Rick Campbell on Dec. 6, then less than a week later selected 24 players from existing rosters in the CFL expansion draft.

Ottawa will not only have the No. 1 selection in the 2014 CFL Draft but it will make the first pick in each of the seven rounds. That means Desjardins and his staff will have to get up to speed quickly on the available prospects.

"We have a good group of Canadians we were able to take through the expansion draft so now if we can build depth, that's important," Desjardins said. "If someday we're able to go with all Canadians across the board, that would be huge." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Legendary NFL quarterback and current Broncos executive vice-president John Elway expects to see Peyton Manning in the NFL next year.

Elway on Manning retirement: QB still young, playing well

NFL playoffs. Broncos legend says he'll meet with star after playoffs to discuss his future

John Elway doesn't see Peyton Manning riding off into that orange Rocky Mountain sunset the way Elway did 15 years ago if the Denver Broncos quarterback caps his record-setting season with a second Super Bowl ring.

Elway's body was breaking down, having been sacked 516 times — 244 more than Manning has been in about the same number of games.

"I still think he's young and he's playing well," Elway, now the Broncos' executive vice-president, said Thursday of his quarterback, who's coming off his best statistical season just two years removed from neck problems that weakened his throwing arm. "That's going to come down to Peyton. It's going to come down to what he wants to do."

Manning has given no indication that he's anywhere near calling it quits at age 37, although he has dropped phrases lately like "light at the end of the tunnel" when talking about his career.

Elway takes that to mean Manning knows that whenever he does walk away, these are the days he'll look back on.

Manning is preparing to lead the Broncos (14-3) against Tom Brady and the New England Patriots (13-4) Sunday in the AFC championship.

Elway said he'll meet with Manning after the season to talk about his future. But the four-time MVP, who will likely have No. 5 soon, certainly doesn't seem to be wringing the last Sundays out of his battered body like Elway was doing back in 1998. After all, Manning has thrown for 97 touchdowns in his two seasons in Denver, including an NFL-record 55 this season.

"When you leave this game, you want to leave it on your last leg and try not to leave anything on the table ..."

The curse of McDaniels

For a brief time, Josh McDaniels was a celebrity in Denver and he played the part with gusto — running to the corner of the stadium after his first signature win and pumping his fists at the crowd to celebrate.

The fun ended almost as quickly as it began.

And less than five years after that big win over New England vaulted the Broncos to an unexpected 5-0 record, the name "Josh McDaniels" stirs up far more angst and anger in Denver than those of the men he beat that day, Bill Belichick and Tom Brady.

"I ain't got nothing to say about him," says Broncos defensive lineman Robert Ayers, a first-round draft pick during the two-year McDaniels era that fans would love to forget.

The man who alienated fans and left the franchise holding the bag on the Tim Tebow experiment returns Sunday to try to deliver another dagger to Denver.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20
Your mind will be moving fast over the next few days as you look to make your ideas pay. But don't make any decisions until after the Sun changes signs on the 20th. Only then will the way forward be clear.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21
Something will happen today that annoys you. But when you think about it, you will realize that it makes no difference to your plans. Carry on with what you were going to do.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21
Don't listen to those who say you are too far out with your ideas for your own good. They may think you are crazy but it all makes perfect sense to you, and that's what matters.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23
You should make yourself known to important people over the next 24 hours. People in positions of authority will be open to your ideas and before you know it, you could find yourself promoted.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23
Today's Mercury-Uranus link will help you to see things way ahead of everyone else. However, other aspects warn that what you see over the weekend may be misleading, so don't get carried away.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
According to the planets, you are too close to a project and need to step back a bit if you are to get a realistic view of how you are doing — and what you need to do next.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You don't have to make an issue of every challenge. You will progress quicker if you ignore whatever does not take you closer to your goals.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Try not to make decisions for loved ones because, no matter how well intentioned, they are sure to resent it. Let them learn from their own mistakes and be there to help them up off the floor if they need it.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Someone you meet today will open your eyes to new possibilities. But that does not mean you should drop what you are doing and head off in a new direction. Wait for the Sun to change signs on Monday before making decisions.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
The planets warn you could easily be fooled by someone who knows how to play on your insecurities. Don't fall for their lies. If you do, you will have only yourself to blame.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The best way to help yourself today is to help others. With mind planet Mercury linked nicely to your ruler Uranus, you have a knack for knowing what those around you need.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20
Sometimes things go wrong for a reason and sometimes for no reason at all. What goes wrong today will most likely fall in the latter category but it's really no big deal. Come Monday you will have forgotten all about it.
